Goal

It has become apparent that non-protein-coding regions of the human genome play critical roles in numerous aspects of human biology from early development to multiple diseases including cancer. MicroRNA alternations are involved in the initiation and progression of human cancer. The multiple roles of non-coding RNAs (ncRNAs) are being deciphered rapidly. In this symposium, we will highlight new fundamental and translational discoveries in this rapidly emerging field, including the use of ncRNAs in cancer detection, initiation, biology, and therapeutics. This will be accomplished by convening scientists, clinicians, and trainees to share their insights and by fostering interdisciplinary interactions. Keynote speakers are Carlo M. Croce, MD (Ohio State University James Cancer Hospital) and Jeffrey M. Rosen, PhD (Baylor College of Medicine). In addition, John S. Mattick, PhD (Garvan Institute of Medical Research) will receive the Ernst W. Bertner Memorial Award and Frank Slack, PhD (Yale University) will receive the Heath Memorial Award. There will also be a poster session for participants to represent their findings. The symposium begins Thursday morning and will end Friday afternoon.

Target Audience

The program will be of broad interest to scientists, scientists-in-training, physicians, physicians-in-training, students, nurses, and fellows interested in hearing the newest advances in the area of genomic medicine.

Educational Objectives

After attending the symposium, participants should be able to

- Apply discoveries about the roles of small and long non-coding RNAs in cancer initiation and development to improve cancer treatments;
- Discuss and research the complex functional networks of coding and non-coding genes and their significance to cancer;
- Decipher the roles of non-coding RNAs as cancer biomarkers and therapeutic targets, contributing to novel drugs and treatment strategies.

Educational Methods

- Lectures
- Question-and-Answer Sessions
- Panel Discussions
- Posters
Call for Posters

Abstracts may be submitted for the Poster Session but must be received no later than August 1, 2014. Please submit to Research2014@mdanderson.org.

Please indicate the category for your poster – Basic Understanding of Dark Matter; ncRNA Biomarkers and Diagnostics; RNA Therapeutics; Cancer and MicroRNAs; ncRNA Theranostics. The top abstract in each category will be chosen to give an 8 minute/2 minute Q & A oral presentation.

Should you have difficulty with the submission, call the Department of CME/Conference Management at 713.745.5000 for guidance. Participants will be notified of their posters’ acceptance by mail or e-mail by August 15, 2014. Please indicate the person to whom correspondence should be sent if other than the first author and include an address, telephone number, fax number, and e-mail address (if available) when submitting the abstract. Registration for the symposium must be submitted at the same time as the abstract. Please register at www.mdanderson.org/conferences.

Young Investigator Travel Fellowship Awards

A limited number of travel fellowships will be available to graduate and medical students, postdoctoral fellows, and physicians in training. Only those applicants who submit abstracts will be considered for an award, which is intended to offset some of the expenses incurred by the recipient in connection with attending the symposium. Anyone wishing to apply for a travel fellowship should check the appropriate box on the registration form and attach a letter of recommendation. This letter should be on official letterhead, be signed by the dean or department head, and contain the following information about the applicant (due by August 1, 2014):

1. academic status
2. research activities in the subject area of the meeting
3. citations of recent articles in this subject area published in peer-reviewed journals
